ABSTRACT

Information sharing is needed by all sectors from commerce, advertising, service and government. Of course, from all sectors, the style of delivering information is different. The purpose that distinguishes the way of delivery and presentation. In a disaster management agency, information is very important. Submission of this information is shown to the entire community as an appeal from a disaster or an event. Therefore, a presentation that is straightforward, organized and efficient is needed so that it can touch the public without causing panic. The application of information on supporting media that is consumed by the public can be an effective step. Therefore, reforms are needed that can be carried out by relevant institutions so that they can reach the community more optimally.
