

Abstract

Visual Communication Design or dekave is a branch of science that studies design as a communication concept and creative expression. This visual communication design uses techniques and media by utilizing visual or visual elements such as images (illustrations), letters, colors, compositions and layouts. Graphic design applies the elements and principles of visual communication design in designing or producing a visual work that fits the target.