Dear Mr. Prof. Maode Ma

Editor-In-Chief Journal of Communications

We wish to submit an original research article entitled "Performance Analysis of 5G Stand Alone Inter-band Carrier Aggregation" for consideration for the Journal of Communications.

We confirm that this work is original and has not been published elsewhere, nor is it currently under consideration for publication elsewhere.

In this paper, we show that the challenge for the 5G New Radio (NR) to provide high data rates, in order to support use cases, especially enhanced Mobile Broadband (eMBB). Carrier Aggregation is a way that is able to improve data rates by aggregate component carriers so it can make a wider bandwidth. We believe that this manuscript is appropriate for publication in the Journal of Communications because it corresponds to the journal's aim and scope.

This article explains that, the simulation will be applied at Marunda Center Industrial Area in Bekasi using downlink outdoor-to-indoor (O2I) with Line of Sight (LOS) scenario. The parameters analyzed in this research using three main parameters: SS-RSRP, SS-SINR and data rate.

We have no conflict of interest to disclose.

Please address all correspondence concerning this manuscript to me at alfin@ittelkom-pwt.ac.id

Thank you for your consideration of this manuscript

Detailed comments
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> The paper matches to the topic quite well and presented in a well-balanced manner. It could be told the author have done plenty background research for the paper, the method and results are convincingly explanatory, it could be better if the author enrich the paper with more content and suggest some possible future further study of this paper. There are few journal articles in the references. However, it's suggested that half of the references should be journals articles. More reliable archived references are suggested to show solid background research. It is suggested to rewrite the conclusion section. In the conclusion section, state the most important outcome of your work. Do not merely list the items of findings.
